PROPOSAL TO BRIDGE THE CHANNEL.-Mr. I. C. E. Weigall, one of the promoters of re proposed Channel milway bridge, has had nterviews with some of the principal residents of Porer and the neighbourhood whose coun-teriorice to the scheme he is desirous of ob-taining—among others, with Earl Granville, the Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports. As already announced, the Emperor of the French and other persons of distinction in France are variety in favour of the project, and it is said that one-half the capital required for preli-minary operations has already been subscribed by our French neighbours. The remainder is to be provided in England, it being the object f the promoters to make the undertaking an international one, and to cause the commercial it restal and general convenience of both countries to be equally respresented,
PRAISEWORTHY MUNIFICENCE.—Mr. M. Firth, the Master Cutler of Sheffield, is about to erect and endow thirty-six almahouses, at a cost of £24,000. The houses are to be erected on a site of two acres of land, at Hanging Water, Ranmoor, a beautiful neighbourhood and a favourite quarter of the Sheffield well-too classes, and are to accommodate 24 single persons, either men or women, and twelve narried couples. The charity will be open to estives of Sheffield, without respect to religious peliof. Each single inmate will receive 7s. per rock, and each married couple 10s. A chapel all be erected for the use of the inmates, and here will be a house for the governor. Each ouse is to be two storeys high, and will conain a living-room 12ft. square, a bedroom of he same size, and a cellar, divided for pantry and coals, and gas and water will be laid on to A great gan of Mohammed, weighing 19 ons presented to the Queen by the Sultan of Turkey, has arrived at Woolwich and has been placed by artillerymen outside the Rotunda, Woolwich Common. It has been brought over in H.M. . Terrible, by Capt. Commerell, R.N., and is accompanied with some atone shot weighing 670lb. Her Majesty has sent, in acknowledgment of the present of this ancient piece of ordinance, one of the more moern wrought iron guns of the Royal Arcenal, ville shot, ammunition, and gun carriage comlete. The Mohammedan gun bears on incription which has been translated by Mr. Redrouse as follows:—" The work of Mine Ali, in he mouth of Itejeb. 868." According to an official report lately published at Berlin, the North German fluct now consists of fifty-five ships and thirty-six gunboats, the former carrying 495 guns and the latter 68, Among the steamers are three frigates (the King William, the Frederick Charles, and the Graum Prince), with 55-guns, and one iron-elad corvette (the Hansa) with 8 guns. Besides these there are two iron-clad boats (the Armibis and the Prince Adulbert) with 7 guns; five tarreted corvettes with 140 giun; five smoothlecked corvettes with 68 gams; two avisos, with 6 games eight gunboats of the first class, with 24 guns; fourteen of the second-class, with 28 gons; and the royal yacht Grille, with four boats attached. The sailing ships are three. frigates (the Gefion, the Thetis, and the Niebe). with 112 gens; three brigs, with 38 guns; the Barbaross, with 9 guns; and three harbour vessels. There are also thirty-two sloops, to which are attached from two to four boats armed with guns. RED TAPE -A Memcl correspondent of a daily paper relates the following incident:-On the 9th of August a fire broke out in a farm-house in a Russian village just across the Penssian frontier. The fire might easily have been confined to one building by a single fireengine; but unfortunately, the Russians did not possess such a thing. But aid is near; a Sreengine from a neighbouring Prussian village comes rattling up to the receue, and in ten minutes can be in full play. It reaches the begreer at the frontier; but, alas! the firemen have no passports. A second bense takes fire. and soon afterwards a third; but of course no Enskinn official could be guilty of such an impropriety as to let the engine pass before all forms had been complied with, and a secondingine meets with the same difficulty as the re first.
